IN LIFE COURSE RESEARCH

Newsletter of the LIVES Centre - February 2024

Dear reader,

We are pleased to send you a brief report on the main news of the LIVES Centre which have marked our last months.

Best regards.

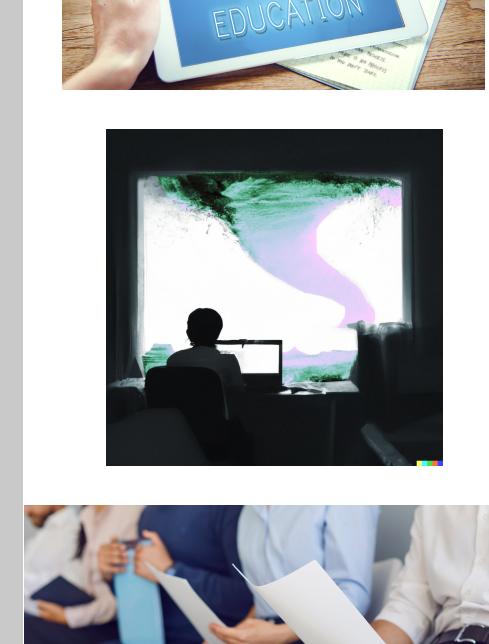

RESEARCH

Exciting exchanges during the International Conference of the LIVES Centre

150 researchers participated in 21 thematic sessions, covering topics such as health, migration, interpersonal networks, and sequence analysis, which facilitated in-depth discussions while keeping a life-course perspective.

Educational Mobility in Switzerland

Between 1950 and 1990, children in each birth cohort, on average, achieved higher educational qualifications than their parents. While educational mobility was stronger among men than women in the older cohorts, these gender differences disappeared in the most recent cohort.

Labour markets and school-to-work transition

In England, it takes young people with lower secondary qualifications 1 month longer to find employment of any sort and 7 months longer to find secure, full-time employment if they are located in a place of low labour demand. This conditional risk model could be observed in other countries such as Switzerland.
